Study location Bremen

Bremen is open to the world. It is multicultural, rich in tradition and gemütlich – a large modern city boasting a 1,200-year history which is home to some 500,000 people. The University of Bremen is an up-to-date academic center for over 1,000 researchers and teaching staff and more than 18,000 students. It forms the center point of a flourishing technology park.

Among the University’s great strengths are the close links between theory and practice, co-operation with universities and research facilities around the world, as well as its international approach in the fields of teaching and research. The University of Bremen is renowned above all for the excellence of its scientific research institutes and centers. The University has advanced to become one of Germany’s leading academic centers, especially in the areas of space research and technology, in ocean research, in the geo-sciences, as well as in the fields of European law policy, theory and practice of the social state and Eastern European research. Bremen is not only able to offer excellent conditions for learning and research, but also a great range of leisure and culture activities. Proximity to the North Sea and the artist colony Worpswede provides endless opportunities for excursions into the surrounding countryside – on water and on land. Course participants will be able to benefit from the expertise and knowledge of the University’s teaching staff. The International Office organises lectures and workshops of STEM faculties to give an insight into their work.
