Dear Mr. Prof. Dr. Heubrock,

I would like to thank you sincerely for attending the SafeCi Final Conference at June 14th and celebrating with us our joint results in Berlin. We were so enthusiastic, that we had the chance to see you in person. We will always remember this special day.

After two and a half years of effort within the project, every minute was worth it and will always be worth it in the future as we share the responsibility for protecting our cities.

SafeCi has successfully brought together European police authorities, scientists and further stakeholders to jointly create a handbook that gives practical recommendations on the protection of public spaces against terrorist attacks. It is a clear commitment to our responsibility for the safety and freedom of each and every individual. The handbook offers us the opportunity to set standards and learn from best practices. It paves the way for professional progress.

I would be very happy if new networks were created and European partnership had been strengthened at the Final Conference. As crime and terror do not stop at national borders: I am convinced that a strong European cooperation offers a multitude of opportunities to safeguard our security.

With best regards,

Dr. Barbara Slowik, 28.06.2021
