ADDRESSING (AND) INEQUALITY

approaches to subjectivation in educational science and beyond

PRE-CONFERENCE
30 September 2021
9-12.30 am

international conference

The digital pre-conference is addressed to PhD and graduate students as well as Post-Docs who would like to exchange theoretical and practical questions around subjectivation research in educational sciences and beyond. The central question is: How, on what research topics and to what end are we using subjectivation as a research perspective? Possible questions for our discussion are: What methodological challenges do I face? Which questions do I have about existing approaches in subjectivation research? Which (re-)readings are important for my work/dissertation? In which ways are social power relations a topic in my research project? Which critical, new impulses, shifts, and readjustments guide my investigation and extend existing research approaches in subjectivation research?

These and other questions we would like to discuss together at the digital pre-conference, which is planned as a working conference. Within the framework of two parallel panels with thematically focused sessions, the exchange will be based on the projects and interests of the participants. Accordingly, it is possible to enrol as an active participant with a short impulse presentation that provides insights into one's own research project and offers input for discussion. We therefore invite you to give 10-minute presentations that address one or more of the above-mentioned questions or related topics.

Impulse presentations can be held in German or English. Please note, however, that (unlike the main conference) the pre-conference will not be equipped with simultaneous translation.

The registration deadline for the pre-conference is 15 August 2021. To register, please fill in the form below and return it to precon@uni-bremen.de. For reasons of time, we may have to limit the number of speakers and participants (to a total of 30 people). Thank you for your understanding. We will inform you about the programme of the pre-conference on the basis of the submissions by 31 August. If you have any questions, please use the email address above.

We are looking forward to your participation and input!
