

Application procedure for scientific theses

At the Professorship for Global supply chain and Management at the University of Bremen

Stand: 21.02.2020

Are you interested in writing a thesis?

If you are interested in writing your thesis at the Professorship for Global supply chain Management (Prof Dr. Aseem Kinra), please follow the guidelines in this document. This will help to avoid coordination problems and thus unnecessary waiting times and effort. You have the possibility to submit your exposé for Bachelor and Master theses in the winter semester from September 01-30 and in the summer semester from March 01-31. No applications for final theses will be accepted outside of these registration windows.

Submission of your proposed topic

If you have finally decided to write a scientific thesis at the Professorship for Global supply chain Management, please submit your topic as an exposé by e-mail and attach a CV, a current performance record as well as the declaration of consent for electronic verification for plagiarism (Prof. Dr. Aseem Kinra: sekkinra@uni-bremen.de). We can only consider your application if you agree to all points of the declaration of consent for electronic verification of plagiarism. Please use the template provided by us to create the exposé. As a prerequisite for the application, the topic must correspond to the research focus of the chair. You will find an overview in the FAQ, which you can also download or view on the homepage of the respective chair.

Please note: During the application windows, we do not provide any support with regard to the selection of a topic and the design of the research question. Open questions can be clarified with the assigned supervisor after the confirmation of supervision.

Procedure of the application procedure

If you have applied for a thesis at our chair in the summer or winter semester, you will receive a confirmation of supervision or a rejection at the latest one week after the end of the application window after a thorough examination of your exposé, if the exposé does not meet the requirements or if your proposed topic could not be realized in this way.

The following applies to Bachelor's students: In the second (at the latest in the third) week after the end of the application window, a mandatory Bachelor's workshop on scientific work will take place (if the student does not participate, the confirmation of supervision expires). The registration of the Bachelor thesis must be made promptly after the date of the workshop so that the confirmation of supervision does not expire. The registration forms for Bachelor theses are submitted to the chairs and forwarded to the respective examination offices. Further information will be announced during the workshop.

The following applies to Master students: Should you receive a confirmation of supervision, a first discussion with your supervisor will be announced. Please bring the registration form for the respective examination office with you to the first supervision meeting. The registration forms for Master's theses are sent by the supervisors to the respective examination offices.

Please note: Please make sure that you have already submitted all certificates of achievement or other requirements for registering a Bachelor's or Master's thesis.
