Women in Germany's genocide of the Ovaherero and Nama in present-day Namibia and the ongoing struggle for reparation.

Live Podcast Session with the activists Esther Muinjange and Sima Luipert (Namibia).

Presented by Afropod, the unapologetically Black Podcast.

*The event will be held in English. There will be a translation into German.

Monday, 16. December 2019
6.30 pm
DGB Haus, Bremen
Not About Us Without Us!

1904-08 Germany committed a colonial genocide against today’s Namibia. Many Ovaherero and Nama were forced into the Omaheke/Kalahari region and died of thirst or were tortured to death in concentration camps. The resistance and the fight for recognition continue till this day.

The podcasters Maciré and Fatou speak with Esther Utjiua Muinjangu and Sima Deidre Luipert, two prominent Ovaherero and Nama activists. They focus on the perspective and (hi)story of women* and children, and talk about their resistance in and their role in the ongoing struggle for recognition of the genocide. The activists also explain why the affected communities demand an official apology and compensation from Germany.

Afropod

Maciré and Fatou are the hosts of "Afropod" - the unapologetically Black Podcast. In their podcast they talk about the uniqueness of Black oppression and Black life, survival and resistance, and visions of liberation. The two podcasters want to spread Black analyses and perspectives in Germany and deepen the political consciousness of Black people. In this sense, they will lead the conversation with Esther Utjiua Muinjangu and Sima Deidre Luipert.