Description:

Within this seminar different processes and phenomena of the „datafied society“ will be discussed and analysed: What is data? What characterizes the datafied society? Who are central actors of the datafied society which reflect on and shape current societies? In discussing these questions the students not only gain knowledge about the structure of and processes within datafied societies but also critically reflect on phenomena like dataveillance or surveillance capitalism. Moreover, participants get to know approaches and initiatives which try to face current challenges of datafied societies.
