Description:

The seminar is part of an Erasmus+ funded blended intensive program (BIP) between the University of Bremen, the University of Padova (Italy), Dublin City University (Ireland) and the University of Salerno (Italy). The 2023 BIP "Digital Constitutionalism and Platform Governance" explores the relationship of human rights and questions of social media platform governance. It aims at providing students with the theoretical, analytical and methodological tools to make sense of the values and principles that (should) guide regulatory arrangements for the digital age, while critically addressing actors' interactions and power positions as well as power limitations in the same context. Additionally, the topic of "Green Transition, Digital Transformations and Sustainability" is addressed.

Students will participate in a virtual component in May and June; in September they will spend a week at the University of Padova to collaborate with their peers, the instructors and invited digital governance experts. The BIP takes place on MA level but is also open to BA students. All participating students will receive Erasmus+ funding to participate in the in-person component.

Please note: participants have already been selected. The selection process occurred in late March through an open call to students in the media and communication BA and MA programs at the University of Bremen.
