Climate Journalism – How to report constructively on climate change

Beschreibung:

Description:

Melting glaciers, rising sea temperatures, droughts and floods - climate change can be felt everywhere and is dramatic. The reporting is also often dramatic, describing - rightly - impending disasters. But far too little is reported on possible solutions and scenarios that can reduce or overcome the consequences of climate change. Constructive journalism emphasises such solutions.

In this seminar, we will take an in-depth look at the concept of constructive journalism and analyse worst and best practices. We will learn about the increasing number of international platforms that are now promoting constructive climate journalism.

All results are compiled in working groups and summarised in presentations.

Please pay attention to the absence rules in module KMW 6 / C.2 due to specific practice orientation and limited capacity.
