DEAR ALUMNI OF THE UNIVERSITY OF BREMEN,

the first edition of our newsletter in a new design. Not only the outer appearance has changed, the content has, too, because we would like more exchange, dialogue, and integration. We want our members to become co-creators. It is our goal to keep the network vivid and start an in-depth discussion with each other. Present your activities. Use the chance to invite, to inform, or to share with us your personal memories and experiences.

I hope you enjoy reading, discovering, and browsing through this edition.

Yours
Derk Schönfeld

ALUMNI-NEWS

ON AN ESPRESSO WITH... CHRISTOPH RANZE, MANAGING DIRECTOR AT ENCOWAY, BREMEN

It was a very detailed espresso – the top mid-tier employer (according to Focus magazine) had a lot to say. Christoph Ranze neither was born nor grew up in Bremen. He, a farmer’s son from Lower Saxony, came to Bremen being specialized in AI after studying at the University of Applied Sciences in Trier. Read more...

CAREER PROSPECTS WITH ALUMNI: FIFTEEN ALUMNI BECOME SALARY NEGOTIATION PROFESSIONALS

Salary negotiations – a fascinating and above all important topic for a successful career, we thought. Therefore, on February 17, fifteen alumni came together to become professionals at salary negotiations under the instruction of Michael Blochberger and Heidrun Dahlmann. Read more...

SEA SHEPHERD – NETWORKING LIKE PIRATES

On Reeder-Bischoff-Straße in Bremen-Vegesack, the strange black office is well-known by now. Unfortunately, not all interested alumni were able to fit in it, which is why we, together with Nadine Gerlach (alumna, biologist, and in charge of PR at Sea Shepherd), invited everyone to the University of Bremen. Fortunately! Because a large crowd was interested in this controversial organization. Read more...

DISCUSSION: ‘INCLUSIVE SCHOOLS WITHIN THE MIGRATION SOCIETY’

Have you ever wanted to meet Senator Dr. Claudia Bogedan for a good conversation? You now have the chance. At the next alumni network meeting, we will be meeting her, the Bremen-based migration researcher Prof. Dr. Yasemin Karakaşoğlu, and the Bremen-based inclusion researcher
Prof. Dr. Natascha Korff. The topic of the network meeting will be ‘Inclusive schools within the migration society.’ Mark your calendars for May 23! Read more...

ALUMNI AT THE BUNDESTAG ON JUNE 7

We have been invited to the Bundestag! Sarah Ryglewski, Bremen member of the Bundestag and alumna of the University of Bremen, gives us the opportunity to travel to Berlin. The one-day excursion to our capital was fully booked at a breakneck pace. However, you can still enter our waiting list. Read more...
