Information Regarding the Payment of Your Mobility Grant:

The monthly mobility grant is set at 600 Euros for countries of the first category ("Ländergruppe I"), 540 Euros for countries of the second category ("Ländergruppe II") and third category ("Ländergruppe III"), check our website for country categories. The number of days you intend to study abroad are the basis of calculation of your total grant. According to the Erasmus+ Guidelines, one month is always considered to consist of 30 days regardless of how many days it actually has.

You will receive the 1st instalment of your funding, which makes up 70 per cent of your total grant sum, before the start of your stay abroad.

Upon completion of your stay and after submitting, all of the required documentation (see Grant Agreement); you will receive the remaining amount of your grant.

The final amount of your mobility grant will be calculated based on the exact dates stated in your "Confirmation of Erasmus Study Period" and the EU- Commission's formula, which you may download at: <https://www.uni-bremen.de/en/studies/starting-your-studies/international-studies/studying-abroad/erasmus-exchange>

If your study period turns out to be shorter than the period stated on your Grant Agreement, the second instalment will be reduced accordingly. If your study period is longer than previously stated, and if you have submitted the Extension Application on time (which is four weeks before the initially planned last day of your stay), the final amount of your mobility grant will be increased accordingly.

Important: The minimum funding period is 60 days (fundable days calculated according to EU formula, see website). If your stay abroad is terminated sooner than that, you will have to pay back the entire grant. (Exception: trimesters at the host institution).

Any interruptions during your study period or unconfirmed study intervals will be deducted from your final study period / funding period as soon as they exceed 4 days (e.g. breaks between language course and the official begin of classes at your host institution).

Further Organisational Matters Regarding Your ERASMUS Stay:

1. Finances:

- Make sure to plan generously for matters such as rent, deposits, and unforeseen expenses.
- Apply for a credit card if necessary and don't forget your regular EC card
- You might want to adapt the monthly credit card limit and the daily maximum amount you may withdraw with your EC card to suit your needs abroad
- If your credit card should be restricted, remember that to legitimise it you may need the credit card contract number (which you can find on your credit card statements).
- Keep in mind further possibilities for financing your stay (such as BAföG, student loans, or other grants and stipends).

2. Insurance:

- Health Insurance: Please carefully read any information on health insurance guidelines provided by your host institution. In most cases, a European health insurance card will be accepted. Inform yourself about which services are included and consider if these sufficiently cover your personal needs. If you are insured with a private company, ask them about which services are covered abroad.

go out!

- Please be aware that there are separate rules and requirements in place for Turkey, and inquire at your host institution! Otherwise, you may have to contract an additional health insurance in Turkey.
- In some cases, you may be able to contract additional insurances via the DAAD-partners or via your parents.

According to the DAAD recommendations, you should at least have:

- A liability insurance which also functions abroad
- A casualty/ accident insurance which functions abroad
- A health insurance, which covers the whole period of your stay. Regular travel health insurances usually only cover a maximum of a few weeks (holidays)!

3. Documents:

- Passport, ID, international student card (check, apply for or extend as necessary), copies or scans of all important documents
- Depending on your destination and nationality, make sure to apply for a Visa early on
- If you need to take medication with you, we recommend having a doctor's prescription or certificate for it (in English).
- In some cases, it might make sense to give relatives formal permission to manage certain, specifically stated and restricted matters such as your bank account, interaction with public authorities, or university. However, we strongly suggest that you think about this carefully!
- Take some biometrical pictures (e.g. for a passport or student card) with you

4. Other:

- Is there anyone to periodically and reliably look after your mail? There might be important letters from state authorities, university, your landlord/-lady, etc. Not all letters can be relied on finding you at your new address abroad.
- Consider subletting your room or apartment (e.g. via the accommodation service offered by the International Office at the University of Bremen; accommodation@uni-bremen.de)
- Make sure to return all books you have borrowed from the university or local libraries before you leave.
- Make sure to establish emergency contacts at home before you leave
- Make medical appointments, including annual controls and vaccinations, on time before you leave
- Make a list of addresses and telephone numbers for friends, acquaintances, doctors, emergency contacts, insurance hotlines, further insurance contacts, your credit card company and blocking hotlines, etc.
- Pack sufficient medication or take note of its components, so that similar products may be found abroad.
- Make sure that you always have access to your e-mail account and that all e-mails reach you (you might want to have them forwarded or save your log-in data somewhere)
- Keep your e-mail address, your address, and your bank account details up-to-date on MobilityOnline!

5. Upon Arrival at your Host Institution

- Do take part in offered orientation weeks or any other introductory/ informative events offered by your host institution
- Try to establish contact to local students or students of different nationalities to broaden your experience
- Make sure to register with all necessary authorities and offices
- Don't forget to get your "Confirmation of Erasmus Study Period" signed at the end of your stay (no sooner than 7 days before the end date stated on the confirmation form, though).
- Advertise your home university and Bremen. Engage with students and lecturers and offer them to briefly present your home university in class. Information about the University of Bremen in English and some video clips with English subtitles can be found at:
