Rail Travel

If you are travelling less than 500 kilometers (310 miles) within Europe, rail travel usually offers time advantages in comparison to air travel. As a rule, Germany’s larger cities are accessible by the high-speed Intercity-Express (ICE); failing this, there is an Intercity (IC) service. A trip from Bremen to Berlin takes about 3.5 hours on an ICE, Hamburg is reachable in 50 minutes.

Long-distance traffic:

- ICE is the fastest and most comfortable way to travel with Deutsche Bahn (DB), reaching speeds of up to 300 km/h (200 miles/h). ICE operate between major cities incl. international destinations in Austria, Belgium, France, Netherlands, and Switzerland.
- IC and EC trains connect major cities, reaching speeds of 200 km/h (125 miles/h) and running either hourly or two-hourly. Intercity trains run exclusively in Germany, while Eurocity trains reach neighboring European countries.

Regional and short-distance traffic:

- The Interregio-Express (IRE) is the perfect direct connection. It connects regions with each other, but does not stop at all stations.
- The Regional-Express (RE) offers economic and fast connections throughout the day and connects rural areas to the long-distance and S-Bahn networks.
- The Regionalbahn (RB) operates between all stations.
- In cities, the S-Bahn is a good choice. S-Bahn trains operate at short and regular intervals and connect cities with the surrounding area.

Bremen Airport

With almost 50 non-stop destinations in 20 countries in Europe and North Africa, the ‘Bremen Airport Hans Koschnick’ ranks among Germany’s key international commercial airports. Bremen Airport is Europe’s fastest airport for departures. Passengers also benefit from the excellent connecting services at European hubs with about 200 incoming flights a week.

Nowhere else in Germany is an international airport as close to the city center as in Bremen. From the airport you can get to Bremen’s city center within a mere 11 minutes.

Shopping Hours

The Bremen Shop Closing Act (Bremisches Ladenschlussgesetz) provides that shops may open round the clock from Monday to Saturday. As a rule, supermarkets are open from Monday to Saturday from 7 am to 9 or 10 pm, shopping malls and department stores usually from Monday to Saturday from 10 to 8.

Dedicated post office branches are mostly open from Monday to Friday from 9 to 1 and from 3 to 6 and on Saturday from 9 to 1. Post office services may also be provided by stationery stores or supermarkets (watch out for the Deutsche Post logo). Their business hours have been adjusted to the store’s shopping hours.

On Sundays and public holidays, only shops at railway stations and airports are open as well as some pharmacies and shops at petrol stations on a reduced range of goods. Kiosks, bakeries (unless it is a bakery café), flower shops and farm shops may be opened for three hours. All other shops are closed on Sundays and public holidays.

On 24 December (Christmas Eve) and 31 December (New Year’s Eve) – if these days fall on weekdays - shops have to close at 2 pm at the latest.

Smoking Ban

The Bremen Act on Non-Smoker Protection (Bremisches Nichtraucherschutzgesetz) provides that smoking is banned in all public buildings (e.g. hospitals, schools, universities, theaters) and all forms of public transport as well as in restaurants, hotels, and clubs. Restaurants may maintain a separate smokers’ room. For the time being smoking is permitted in local one-room bars with an area of less than 75 sqm provided they are clearly marked as ‘Raucherlokal’, do not offer food and are off-limits for minors.

Local Newspapers

Weser-Kurier and Bremer Nachrichten dominate the regional media landscape under the umbrella of Bremer Tageszeitungen AG. They have the highest circulation and reach in the Bremen business region, since seven of ten people here read one of these newspapers. Around 170,000 copies are put together and printed day in, day out. Since the introduction of Kurier am Sonntag in 1983, readers have even been able to find out the latest news from Bremen, the region and the world at breakfast on Sunday (www.weser-kurier.de).

Local Radio and TV Channel

As the smallest of nine German public-broadcasting institutions, the local broadcast channel Radio Bremen (www.radiobremen.de) produces and provides programs for the nationwide TV network ‘Das Erste’ and four regional radio networks (Bremen Eins, Bremen Zwei, Bremen Vier, Bremen Next).

Regional TV programs serving the Federal State of Bremen and its surroundings are broadcasted daily between 6 and 8 pm. Outside this time slot, regional programs are broadcasted in cooperation with the channel NDR (North German Broadcasting).
Radio and TV License Fee

Based on the ‘Interstate Broadcasting Agreement’ (Rundfunkstaatsvertrag), the statutory Radio and TV license fee (Rundfunkbeitrag) provides the financing of public broadcasting (ARD incl. 9 regional channels, ZDF incl. 3sat, ARTE, KiKA, PHOENIX, additional digital channels and Deutschlandradio). Every German household has to pay one fee regardless of the number of household members and the number of devices (radio, TV, computer, smartphone). The fee also covers the private cars of all household members. Additional contributions only become due for a second residence and for commercially used cars. The monthly rate amounts to € 17.50 per household.

Companies are likewise obligated to contribute. The amount of the monthly fee depends inter alia on the number of employees (headcount 0 to 8: € 5.83 p.m., 9 to 19: € 17.50 p.m., 20 to 49: € 35.00 p.m., etc.).

Homeowners, tenants and companies have to register unsolicitedly. Registration forms are available from banks and public authorities. The registration can also be made online:

Housing

As a rule, apartments for rent are completely unfurnished in Germany. Some provide a built-in kitchen, others don’t. An apartment offered as a ‘3-room apartment’ consists of two bedrooms, one living room plus kitchen plus bathroom. Furnished apartments are available to a minor degree but at increased rental fees. Tenancy agreements for apartments are generally issued in German only.

Residential Rent Charges

Rental charges consist of the base rent (Kaltmiete / KM) plus extra charges (Nebenkosten / NK). The overall rent is called ‘Warmmiete’. The extra charges are billed by the landlord, usually as monthly prepayments which are settled annually and result in either a credit or an additional payment.

In addition, the tenant is generally required to provide a security deposit amounting to two or three months’ base rent.

Extra charges include heating, water consumption, garbage collection, stairwell cleaning, lighting of corridors, operational costs of elevator, chimney sweeping, sidewalk cleaning, garden maintenance, property tax, building insurance, etc.

Energy costs (electricity and gas) are in general directly paid by the tenant to the energy provider, though can in special cases also be included in the extra charges.

Case example

Base rent (Kaltmiete), e.g. 60 sqm unfurnished, good residential area, approx. € 600 plus extra charges (Nebenkosten), approx. € 170
Overall rent (Warmmiete) payable to landlord € 770 plus electricity charges billed by energy provider, e.g. for 2-person household, approx. € 80
Total monthly housing costs of this case example, approx. € 850

How to find Accommodation in Bremen

There are different ways to find an apartment in Bremen:

- Real estate agents (Makler) offer their services against broker’s fee (2 months’ rent plus 19% VAT) on the principle ‘who orders, pays’.
- Rental adverts are published in the local newspaper Weser-Kurier both online (www.immobilien.weser-kurier.de) and in the Saturday print edition.
- Private offers can also be found on the electronic bulletin board of the Bremen city portal (www.schwarzesbrett.bremen.de ⇒ Wohnungs-/Mietangebote)
- Furnished accommodations are offered by agencies like HomeCompany Bremen (http://bremen.homecompany.de/en) or MIBEA (www.mibea.de) or can be searched online using the keyword ‘Möbliertes Wohnen Bremen’.

Most of the websites listed above are unfortunately available in German only.
Average Residential Rent in Bremen

The below 2020 data, representing monthly base rents excl. extra charges, were ascertained by an appraisal of rental adverts in the WESER-KURIER from September to December 2019. The average rental amount was calculated on the basis of an unweighted mean value.

Garbage collection fees are billed by ‘Die Bremer Stadtreinigung’ to homeowners. If you are a property owner, please register at Die Bremer Stadtreinigung (form at www.die-bremer-stadtreinigung.de/service/formulare-2478 ⇒ ‘Eigentümerwechsel’). If you are a tenant, your landlord will notify Die Bremer Stadtreinigung on your behalf and recharge to you the corresponding fees as part of the extra costs (Nebenkosten).

Garbage collection charges consist of a basic fee amounting to € 43.26 p.a. per household plus variable charges for the emptying of the gray bin. The minimum bin volume for residual waste is stipulated at 15 l per person and week. Correspondingly, the size of the bin is determined according to the number of persons belonging to a household. Home owners are obligated to notify Die Bremer Stadtreinigung of any change in the number of persons.

The bins are emptied biweekly, however, the standard emptying includes only 20 emptyings of the gray bins p.a. (resp. 13 emptyings for 1-person-households). The emptying of the brown and blue bins is not charged separately. The emptying of the yellow bins is financed through the Green Dot system.

The Validity of Foreign Driving Licenses in Germany

Residence Abroad
Driving licenses of foreign citizens who are not permanently resident in Germany but travelling as business people or tourists, are regarded as indefinitely valid, as long as they remain valid in the country of origin. An international driving license, a national driving license with a corresponding German translation or an EU/EEA driving license serve as proof of validity. Foreign provisional driving licenses or licenses with temporary validity terms may not be used in Germany at all.

Residence in Germany
Driving licenses of foreign citizens with permanent residence in Germany (i.e. bearers of a German residence permit) are only valid for a period of six months starting the day of taking up residence in Germany. Thereafter, it has to be transformed into a German driving license (exceptions are EU or EEA driving licenses). If the holder can convincingly prove that he/she will be staying in Germany for a period of less than 12 months, the validity of the driving licence can be extended to one year. A driving license that is obtained abroad whilst one is resident in Germany is not recognized in Germany at all, unless it is obtained during a stay abroad of at least six months duration for the sole purpose of schooling or studying.

Transformation of Foreign Driving Licenses
The guidelines on the transformation of foreign driving licenses differ, depending on the country in which the driving license originates. Transformation may or may not involve an examination. At all events, transformation is only possible if the license is transformed within three years since assuming residence in Germany. After this period, applicants are treated as beginners and have to complete a full driving training course and test.

EU and EEA Driving Licenses
The transformation of an EU or EEA driving license is voluntary, since the driving license is indefinitely valid in Germany. Special regulations apply during the first two years of holding a driving license (probation period).

Special Regulations
Some US states, Canadian provinces and certain other countries (e.g. Japan, Korea, Singapore, Taiwan) have training and examination structures comparable to those in Germany. The conditions for transforming these driving licenses have been considerably simplified. In most cases driving and theory tests are not necessary. Condition: the transformation has to be completed within three years of assuming residence in Germany.

Regulations for so-called ‘Third Countries’
For all other states, the following applies for license transformations: theory and driving tests must be taken again in Germany. However, the regulations concerning minimum instruction do not apply as they do for first-time German applicants. A driving school has to be involved since applicants must be accompanied by a driving instructor during the test.

Documents required for Transformation
- Passport & electronic residence title & biometric photo
- Valid foreign national driving license & certified translation thereof
- Eye test certificate
- First aid training certificate
- Name of driving school who will be involved in the theory and practical driving tests

Traffic Law
Just a few rules of the German road traffic regulations (Straßenverkehrsordnung StVO):

- Seatbelts must be worn by all car passengers on front and back seats (§21a StVO).
- Children under 12 or smaller than 1.50 m need to sit in special child safety seats (§21).
- The use of mobile phones - unless hands-free - is prohibited while the vehicle is in operation (§23).
- Driving with summer tires during winterly road conditions may entail a fine (§2).
- The signal-horn may only be used in case of danger (§16).
- At least one high visibility vest (EN 471 standard) per vehicle is mandatory (§53a).
- Penalties for driving under the influence of alcohol start with a blood alcohol limit of 0.03% in case of obvious driving impairment, otherwise at 0.05% even without signs of driving impairment.

The Bremen Low Emission Zone
A Low Emission Zone (LEZ) is an area in which only vehicles that meet a specific emission standard are permitted to drive. Vehicles with high emissions are banned from the LEZ. If you wish to travel into Bremen’s city center by your own car you should keep in mind that the low emission zone rules apply to the greater downtown Bremen area (districts Altstadt, Östliche Vorstadt and most of Neustadt). The boundaries of the LEZ are clearly indicated by special traffic signs (see on the right).

To enter the Bremen LEZ your car must have a green low emission sticker. Overnight guests who have written confirmation of reservation at non-private accommodations are fundamentally exempted from the low emission zone regulations.

Entering the LEZ without the green sticker may entail a fine of currently € 80.00.

Childcare in Bremen

Children who are at least one year old have a legal right to day care comprising at least 20 hours per week.

Day Care for Children under 3

Children who have turned one year are entitled to early childhood support in a day care center or in private homes where they are looked after by a childminder.

In day care centers children will be taken care of in groups of up to 10 children. In addition, some kindergartens offer mixed-aged groups, where 5 out of 15 children will be under 3 years of age. Moreover so-called socially educational play groups for toddlers and their parents (Sozialpädagogische Spielkreise) are offered. Currently, there are more than 280 institutions in Bremen with a staff of pedagogically trained professionals who are responsible for the early childhood care, education and support of the children. Day care centers usually offer a period of care for 6 to 8 hours, 5 days a week.

Children can also be left in the care of childminders (Tagesmutter/-vater) who may take care of up to 5 children at the same time. In the municipal area of Bremen there are more than 300 registered childminders, who are arranged by PiB – Pflegekinder in Bremen (Bremen children in care). PiB ensures that all childminders are trained and supervises their work.

All childcare facilities have a 4 weeks closing period throughout the year.

Kindergarten

Children who have turned 3 years are entitled to 4 daily hours of childcare in a kindergarten until they enter primary school. As needed – with priority given to working parents – a higher number of day care hours can be applied for. On the whole, there are over 200 facilities (state-run day care centers, facilities run by church congregations or public welfare organizations, or in private hand) offering kindergarten places.

As a rule, kindergartens are open daily between 8 am and 4 pm, in addition early and late care can be arranged. The kindergarten year runs parallel to the academic school year, i.e. from 1 August to 31 July. During school holidays, kindergartens are closed on a total of 20 workdays. The opening and childcare hours in privately run kindergartens vary and information pertaining thereto can be obtained directly from them.

Enrollment

The main enrollment period for the kindergarten year (referring both to kindergarten and day care) beginning on 1 August 2020 is in January 2020. If the child shall be enrolled for a date other than 1 August, then it should be done in due time – at least 3 months in advance – so that it can be scheduled in the issuance of available places.

The enrollment is to be made at the particular facility of your choice. For the enrollment, the ‘Kita-Pass’, provided by the Senator for Children and Education for all children registered in the Bremen municipality, is required and must be submitted along with the enrollment form. If the Kita-Pass is not yet available due to comprehensible reasons (e.g. recent move to Bremen), an enrollment can be made on presentation of the certificate of registration with the Bremen registry office.

All kindergartens, day care centers and childminders have a limited number of places available and not every institution is capable of offering all possible care hours. For this reason, it may not always be possible to accommodate a child in the institution of choice. It is therefore important to indicate alternative institutions if this is of interest.
Fees
Since 2019, the kindergarten childcare for children aged between 3 and 6 years is non-contributary in Bremen.

All other fees of kindergartens and day care centers run by church, state and charities as well as fees of childminders are calculated according to equal principles and are based on the amount of the family income. Fee charts can be picked up at any childcare center.

The fees charged by private organizations or parent associations are determined by the respective institutions themselves.

School Education in Bremen

In Germany the responsibility for school and university education lies with the ministries of education of the 16 federal states. Therefore, parts of the education system may be differently structured and termed. Children with main residence in the State of Bremen have to attend a Bremen-based school.

School Enrollment Requirements

By 31 March of any year, the verbal skills of all children becoming school-agers the following year are assessed by special language tests, which will – if necessary – be followed by a compulsory language tuition program. Children of migrants who only have little or no previous knowledge of the German language, start their school enrollment with a special language course of several months before they are integrated into the regular form.

Compulsory School Attendance

The compulsory school attendance (Schulpflicht) begins on 1 August for all children who turn six before 30 June. At the request of the parents and in accordance with a medical certificate, also children who turn six before 30 September can be enrolled to primary school on 1 August. Children who turn six between 1 October and 31 January may possibly be enrolled on 1 August, but only on basis of an explicit recommendation of the school doctor and the kindergarten.

During the 12 year-long compulsory education, students are obligated to visit a public school or a private substitute school in the Federal State of Bremen. At the school’s option, lessons can be given on five or six weekdays and by way of an all-day school with obligatory lessons from 8 am to 4 pm (Ganztagsschule).

School Types

- Grundschule (primary school)
- Oberschule (high school / secondary school)
- Gymnasium (senior high school)

- The primary school comprises grades 1 to 4 and provides education and care Monday through Friday from 8 am to 1 pm (so-called ‘reliable primary school’). English as a foreign language is introduced from grade 3.

  During grade 4 parents receive a recommendation from the primary school regarding the next stage (Oberschule or Gymnasium) of their child’s education. If parents do not attend this consulting, the school will bindingly assign the student to a school type.

- The Oberschule offers the achievement of the Abitur / Allgemeine Hochschulreife (senior high school degree / pre-university qualification) typically after a nine-year course of education, i.e. at the end of grade 13.

  The ‘expanded vocational training level’ (EBBR erweiterte Berufsbildungsreife / erweiterter Hauptschulabschluss) or the ‘intermediate-level education certificate’ (MSA mittlerer Schulabschluss) can be achieved after a six-year course at the end of grade 10.

  The Oberschule offers a common syllabus to children of mixed ability on different educational levels. Classes have a maximum of 25 students. Students of grades 5 to 10 are enabled to learn at least two foreign languages.

  In the course of their subsequent vocational training, degree holders of the vocational training level and intermediate-level education still have to attend a vocational school in order to comply with the 12 year-long compulsory education.

- At the Gymnasium the achievement of the Abitur is scheduled after an eight-year course of education. The syllabus demands a rapid learning aptitude of the students and provides a uniform educational level. However, also the a.m. other degrees may be obtained.

  Classes have a maximum of 30 students. Students of grades 5 to 10 must at least learn two foreign languages. A third foreign language may be selected in grade 8 or 9. During the final two years (qualification phase) the tuition consists of obligatory and optional units with individually selectable profiles and emphases, e.g. a bilingual syllabus of instruction which enables the achievement of a language competence going far beyond the performance of regular foreign language classes. The qualification phase is completed by the Abitur exams; bilingual courses may require additional tests according to international qualification standards.

A) Culture

a) Market Square, Town Hall and Cathedral

Bremen’s magnificent town hall (Rathaus) and the Roland statue on market square (Marktplatz) received the UNESCO World Heritage status in June 2004. The market square is often the backdrop to glittering parties and the setting for political rallies. Surrounding the Roland statue are the town hall, the city state’s local parliament (Haus der Bürgerschaft), and the Schütting, seat of the Bremen Chamber of Commerce. Domshof, the cathedral grounds, plays host to the market which is held daily. Next to the town hall is Bremen’s colossal cathedral, St.-Petri-Dom.

Bremen’s town hall (www.bremer-rathaus.de) dates back to the 15th century and is considered to be one of the most beautiful of its kind in Germany. After 1605, the town hall facades were redesigned in the style of Weser renaissance. To the rather plain looking west side of the town hall are Bremen’s famous town musicians, the Bremer Stadt­musikanten. Just a few feet away from the four town musicians, down a few steep steps, is the famous wine cellar and restaurant Bremer Ratskeller (www.ratskeller.de). Since it was erected in 1405, German wines were stored and sold there. With about 650 varieties the Ratskeller has the world’s greatest selection of German wines.

Opposite the town hall is the Böttcherstraße (www.boettcherstrasse.de), a street that is not only home to a shopping arcade but also bursting with culture.

b) Schnoor

Bremen’s oldest district, the Schnoor (www.bremen-schnoor.de), is a maze of lanes lined with little 15th and 16th century houses set close together like a string of pearls (German: ‘Schnur’). It is located between the cathedral area and the river Weser and is home to numerous collectors and passionate craftsmen, cigar turners and pipe carvers, toy collectors and model shipmakers.

c) Kunsthalle Bremen

Bremen’s Kunstverein (art association) with presently over 9,000 members was one of the first in Germany. Founded in 1823 by the citizens of Bremen, it still runs the Kunsthalle art gallery (www.kunsthalle-bremen.de/en) with its own funds. Over the centuries, a rich and diverse collection has been assembled, containing outstanding paintings and sculptures as well as precious holdings of graphic art. In 2011 the Kunsthalle re-opened in new splendor, substantially extended and modernized.
d) Weserburg

The Weserburg (https://weserburg.de/en/), Bremen’s museum of modern art is located in the middle of the River Weser in the heart of the Hanseatic City. Constantly alternating presentations of works from famous private collections as well as special exhibitions show the dynamic development of modern art from the sixties to the present.

e) Theater am Goetheplatz and Kleines Haus

The Goetheplatz Theater (www.theaterbremen.de) has the appearance of a temple dating back to the days of classicism. Built in 1913, it has been caringly restored on several occasions and, being a four-layered theater, is a leading stage for opera, drama, ballet, and children’s and youth theater.

f) Bremer Shakespeare Company

Founded in 1983, the first and foremost aim of the Bremer Shakespeare Company (www.shakespeare-company.com/en) is the production of Shakespeare’s plays in repertory. The plays are collectively produced, no single concept straightjacketing the production, no star actor subjecting all other performers, but making provision for each actor to voice his or her very own view.

g) Übersee-Museum

In the Übersee-Museum (www.uebersee-museum.de/en) the combination of collections focussed on ethnology, trade and natural history is connected to a harmonious experience which is unique in Europe. Here visitors can immerse themselves in distant continents and discover the fascinating cultures and natural environments with unique exhibits from across the world, masterful animal dioramas and real plants.

h) Focke Museum (Bremen State Museum of Art and Cultural History)

One park and six houses showcase 1,200 years of fascinating municipal and cultural history in permanent and temporary exhibitions, at the Focke laboratory and in the children's museum (www.focke-museum.de).

The German Maritime Museum – Leibniz Institute for German marine history (DSM) (www.dsm.museum/information/) is the largest of its kind in Germany. The museum building is presently in the process of renovation. The first part shows a shipwreck with a fascinating story: the Bremen Cog of 1380. Its discovery in the river Weser in 1962 prompted the founding of the museum and now represents the focus and starting point of the new design und exhibitions.

a) Bürgerpark
The Bürgerpark (www.buergerpark.de) meets with the ÖVB Arena on its north side. Spanning an area of over 200 hectares, this is the largest privately financed city park in Germany. It is a paradise of sparse woods and meadows, old, gnarled trees, as well as picturesque canals and lakes. Bremen’s Shakespeare Company performs some of its shows here during the summer. A classical concert together with an impressive fireworks display traditionally mark the conclusion of the summer season.

b) Wallanlagen Park
The city’s ramparts which once formed an extra line of protection around the boundary walls were transformed into a green belt. The Wallanlagen park right in the heart of the city is a veritable display of horticultural art and the perfect place for a relaxing stroll.

c) Rhododendron Park and Botanika Bremen’s impressive collection of rhododendrons and azaleas totals around 10,000, making it the second largest in the world (www.rhododendronparkbremen.de). The flowering season lasts six weeks, the best time to visit is the month of May. The horticultural science center botanika (www.botanika-bremen.de/en) lies in the heart of the Rhododendron Park. In the discovery center all the senses are stimulated: interactive experiments and multimedia stations provide a fascinating tour of Asia, which reveals some of the diverse sounds and smells that nature has to offer.

d) Knoop’s Park
Knoop’s Park, one of Bremen’s loveliest parks in the North of Bremen with a total area of 65 hectares, offers beautiful open green spaces and some 7 km of walkways, tree-lined avenues and romantic paths (www.foerderverein-knoops-park.de).

e) Stadtwaldsee / Werdersee / Weser beach by Café Sand
The beaches of the lakes Werdersee and Stadtwaldsee (also called ‘Unisee’ / University lake) and the sandy beach by Café Sand (reachable via a direct ferry connection from the Viertel) are very popular among those seeking relaxation and sunshine in the summertime.

f) Blockland
Blockland (www.blockland.de) is not only Bremen’s largest contiguous agricultural area but also its natural recreational area No. 1. To go by bike, on foot or on inline skates along the top of the Blockland dyke is certainly one of the most beautiful ways to spend a sunny day in Bremen. And in a freezing winter, the natural ice rink ‘Semkenfahrt’ attracts lots of ice skaters.
