

Study Spaces at the University of Bremen: Terms of Use and Hygiene Regulations

With immediate effect, the University of Bremen is providing learning islands on campus for students. In addition to the previous terms of use, specific regulations apply in order to reduce the risk of infection with the corona virus.

We therefore urge you to adhere to the hygiene regulations.

Terms of Use

- The study spaces are available from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m from Mondays to Fridays. Due to measures to protect against infection, the study spaces currently have no (technical) equipment. However, power and media outlets are available.
- Bookings can only be made via the Stud.IP learning platform.
- Study spaces can be reserved no earlier than two weeks before the required date. Please reserve spaces only if you really need them. Please also remember to cancel as soon as possible, if your plans have changed.
- Due to measures to protect against infection, the number of persons per learning island has been significantly limited. The booking system shows the maximum number of persons per learning island.
- If possible, book learning islands for the actual number of people that will use them.
- After the end of the booked period, immediately leave the university building.
- As the university buildings are closed, you will need your booking confirmation to enter the building. Please present this confirmation to the security staff.
Currently the changeover takes place using your QR code. You will get more informations via the Stud.IP learning platform.
- The booking confirmation will also show the maximum number of persons that can use a study space. If you want to use a learning island as a group, you must enter the university building together as a group. The security staff will not allow you to enter the building separately.
- Please sanitize your hands when entering the university building.
- Please adhere to the hygiene regulations below.
- With your booking of the learning island, you will have access only to the learning island and the nearest restroom, but no other rooms in the building.
- If you have booked the learning island for a group: Please inform everyone about the contents of these terms of use and hygiene regulations.

Hygiene Regulations

- Persons who are subject to an isolation order¹ are not allowed to enter the university buildings. This applies also if a valid room booking exists.
- Students who belong to a risk group according to the criteria of the Robert Koch Institute are particularly required to adhere to the hygiene regulations for their own protection.
- Please keep the required distance of at least 1.5 m to other people. This also applies when waiting, in elevators, in hallways, or on stairs. Please pay attention to the regulations of wearing a face mask.
- Please clean the surface of the desk at the beginning and end of your session with the disinfectant provided. The disinfectant will, of course, remain at the learning island.
- Avoid the sharing of objects.
- Ensure adequate ventilation (if possible continuously, otherwise open the window for 10 minutes after every 20 minutes). All available study spaces have windows to provide adequate ventilation or have reliable air conditioning. Study spaces where this can not be ensured will not be made available.
